Welcome to Oxford

The Orientation Programme for European and International Students is designed to help you settle into the University and to give you assistance and advice about various practical aspects of living in the United Kingdom and Oxford.

If you have any questions during the programme, please talk to the University staff or student helpers, who will be wearing name badges for identification. There will also be an enquiries desk where staff will be available throughout the programme. Any further enquiries after the Orientation Programme may be directed to Student Information, which is based in the Examination Schools.

About Student Information

Student Information is responsible for providing advice about issues affecting European and International students, including immigration questions, and assisting students needing to extend their visas. It runs a termly orientation programme for new students, arranges workshops and presentations during term time, and provides general support and guidance for students during their time at Oxford.

Student Information is located in the Examination Schools, High Street, Oxford OX1 4BG. Email enquiries should be addressed to student.information@admin.ox.ac.uk or student.immigration@admin.ox.ac.uk (for visa matters). When e-mailing Student Immigration, please remember to include a title in the subject field and state your course, nationality, and College.

Practical Information

Venue for the programme

The programme will take place at the Examination Schools, High Street (see the map on page thirteen for directions). When you enter the building, follow the signs to the right and upstairs as you walk in the main entrance. For disabled access, use the dedicated entrance just beyond the main doors on the High Street; all floors are accessible via lifts in the building.

Timings of the talks

You are not required to attend all the talks of the Orientation Programme and may choose which talks to attend depending on your interests.

The starting times for individual sessions are listed in the timetable. Please make sure you arrive in plenty of time before the talks that you wish to attend start. Latecomers will not be allowed in once an individual session has begun. If you miss a talk and would like to read the handout prepared for the session this will be available to download a week after the programme has finished at www.ox.ac.uk/students/new/orientation/

Social hour

There will be a social hour from 4.00pm-5.00pm, which will give you the opportunity to meet other new students and some current students. You will also be able to meet staff from Student Information to ask any questions you may have about immigration/visa matters or other issues affecting European and International students. The advisors from the information fair (see below) will also be available for consultation until 5pm.

Internet café

An internet café will be available on Thursday 2nd October from 10.00am to 5.00pm for you to use one of the laptops available. Ask at the enquiries desk for details.

Information fair and individual consultations

An information fair will run alongside the afternoon talks on Thursday 2nd October. At the fair you will be able to find out information from and consult with a number of advisors who can help you with:

- Opening a bank account
- Libraries
- Careers advice
- Visa and Immigration advice
- Language Centre
- US loans and Graduate Funding advice
- Oxford Union debating society
- Oxford University Student Union
- Oxford University Sport and bicycles
- Alumni Society
- Oxford University Sustainability Team
- Oxford University Shop

On Friday 3rd October you are welcome to return to Examination Schools to visit the information fair again from 12.00pm, though we cannot admit anybody after 3pm on this day.

Bank accounts: Open your account at the orientation programme

Representatives from the main banks (Lloyds, Barclays, Nat West, and Santander) in Oxford will be present at both the Information Fairs on Thursday 2nd and Friday 3rd October to answer questions about opening bank accounts. HSBC will not be present but information about their bank accounts is contained in the guide. The banks will be able to open accounts or arrange an appointment to do so later in the week.

You may like to read the guide prepared by Student Information about opening a bank account. Please ask the staff if you do not have a copy in your welcome pack. To open an account you will need your passport or EU identity card and the Oxford student enrolment certificate stamped by your college.

Special late bank opening hours: To assist you in opening a UK bank account the following high street banks will keep their Oxford city centre branches open late specifically for incoming international Oxford students, as scheduled below:

Thursday 2 October 5pm-7pm: Lloyds, Santander

Friday 3 October 5pm-7pm: Lloyds

Monday 6 to Thursday 9 October 5pm-7pm: Lloyds

US loans and Graduate Funding: Advice for students

Members of the Graduate Funding team will be present from 10.00am-5.00pm to distribute bursary cheques and material. They will answer any queries you may have regarding your current loan application as well as to offer advice to any students who have yet to make an application but would like to do so in the future. Students are invited to apply for loans throughout the academic year, so if you did not apply before arriving in Oxford, it is not too late to start the process. The University offers a comprehensive advisory service for students taking out U.S. Federal Stafford, PLUS or private loans, as well for students from Canada, or those wishing to defer payment of previous loans whilst studying at Oxford.

Staff will also be available to answer questions about graduate funding and meet current scholarship holders.

Refreshments and lunch

Coffee, tea, fruit juice and biscuits will be provided free of charge during the morning and afternoon breaks. Lunch is not provided but there are sandwich shops and cafes on the High Street and numerous cafes and restaurants along Cornmarket Street. Please ask the student helpers if you need suggestions of places to go for lunch.

Other information

National and international newspapers will be available for you to read during the day. Literature about the arts in Oxford and advice on practical topics such as insurance, mobile phones and travel will also be available in the North School.

Late arrivals

If you are arriving in Oxford late and are not able to attend the graduate programme then you are welcome to attend the information fair at the undergraduate programme on Monday 6 October from 10.00am to 1.00pm at the Exam Schools which will allow you to meet representatives from the banks, libraries, careers service, student union, visa advisors etc. If space permits, you may be allowed to join some of the talks but priority will be given to undergraduate students first.

There will also be late drop-in sessions on Friday 17 October and Friday 24 October from 3pm-5pm at the Exam Schools on both days. Drop in to collect a welcome pack and ask any questions you may have.

Optional events happening on Saturday 4th October

There will be a number of optional events taking place on Saturday 4 October which you are welcome to attend. In most cases you will need to sign up at the orientation programme on Thursday 2 October, or for the spouses and partners event email student.information@admin.ox.ac.uk in advance.

The events on Saturday 4 October include the following, (see page 11 for more information)

- Walking tours of Oxford
- Spouses and Partners event
- Women & the Graduate World lecture
- Eco-centric: How to be a Sustainable Student

We hope you enjoy the Orientation Programme, and that you have an enjoyable and rewarding time at Oxford University.

About the Examination Schools

The historic Oxford University Examination Schools are located on the High Street in the heart of the medieval city centre of Oxford. The building, commonly known as the 'Schools' by the thousands of undergraduates who have sat for exams in traditional sub-fusc (black and white attire still required to be worn) was designed and built by Thomas Jackson as the University examination centre, between 1876 and 1881.

The Examination Schools building was built in 1882 specifically for the holding of examinations and lectures. The architect was Sir Thomas Jackson Bart. R.A. This building, considered by many to be his masterpiece, brought him from obscurity to prominence in architecture. During the two World Wars the Examination Schools was used as a military hospital.

During term University lectures are held here with over a thousand students coming and going every hour. Examinations are also held here at various times throughout the year. These are mainly for the degree of B.A., but also include degrees of Master of Philosophy; Master of Science; Master of Studies; Bachelor of Civil Law, and a number of other Diplomas and Certificates and also oral examinations for Doctorates. During the peak period in June almost twelve hundred students are seated every day for written examinations. They are all required to attend in sub-fusc clothing (black and white), an Oxford tradition which is still rigidly enforced.

Main entrance to Examination Schools

A number of portraits, which form a part of the University's Collection, are housed in the Schools. These include a portrait of Emperor Wilhelm II in the South School; the 1st Duke of Wellington in the North School, Chichester Fortescue, and the Herkomer Collection (in Room 9) which includes a portrait of the Very Revd. Henry George Liddell, Dean of Christ Church and father of 'Alice in Wonderland'.

Sir Thomas Jackson put into this building the things he deeply believed about architecture: that the architect was essentially an artist; that he should be the creator and designer of everything in his building; that the decorative arts were an essential part of an architectural design. His respect for, and love of, the past is illustrated by his use of materials from old buildings: the marble inlay on the West staircase, bought in Rome on his honeymoon; the doorcase and overmantle plaques of the Luncheon Room; Wren's pulpit from the Divinity School which he made into the Examiner's throne in the South School and the throne in the North School made from the Vice Chancellor's seat from the Old School with the sounding board from Wren's pulpit over it. His sense of humour is most obviously seen in the creatures from Aesop's fables depicted in the marble floor in the Great Hall.

The Examination Schools has proved invaluable to the University for over one hundred years. Many thousands of students have passed through the building in that time, doubtless with feelings of considerable nervous tension on entering, but with great elation on leaving.

Checklist of things to do in your first month

This is not a complete list of things to do. Your college and department may have other suggestions.

Immigration matters

- If you have a Tier 4 Student visa, your College will ask to scan your passport and visa page in the first few weeks. Please make sure you do this as it is important for you and the University to meet this legal responsibility.
- You must register with the police within seven days if the stamp in your passport says this is necessary. See notes in A-Z guide of Studying in Oxford. This is a legal requirement and is treated very seriously by the police.
- Make a note in your diary now to make preparations for renewing your visa two months before it expires. It is a criminal offence to stay in the UK after your visa has expired and is treated very seriously. You may be removed from the UK if you overstay and it may make further applications more difficult.
- If you are planning to travel to Europe and need a Schengen visa, plan this at least three months before you need it (or even further ahead at Christmas time and Easter).
- Make a photocopy of the identification page of your passport and the UK visa stamp in case you lose your passport.

Academic matters

- Complete the online registration procedure at www.ox.ac.uk/students/registration_self_service
- Attend Library, Language Centre and Computer Centre induction programmes.
- Book early at the Language Centre, to learn a new language or to brush up your English.
- Meet your supervisor to discuss your research and a schedule for meetings.

Finance

- Find out about the easiest and most convenient way to transfer money to the UK.
- Plan your budget for the next 12 months, remembering to prepare for currency fluctuations.
- Buy a TV licence if you are going to use a television in your accommodation.

Health and safety

- Register with the College doctor.
- Find out about insurance for your belongings (see Oxford Essentials booklet) and insurance for travelling outside the UK.
- Be especially careful about pickpockets and thieves in the first few months you are in Oxford, as there are some opportunistic thieves aware that many students have just started at the University.
- Make a list of emergency contact numbers (police, doctor, college contact, etc).

Notes
